

Expert Exchange Program

Looking for a little more in-depth help getting started with MailChimp? Perhaps you want someone to create a few custom templates for you, help you wire up your API, or even just handle migrating your lists from another ESP to ours. As a new MailChimp customer, you can get as much help as you need through our Expert Exchange Program (EEP). We'll even help foot the bill.

Here's how it works:

1. Pick a company and let us know who it is.

You might have an agency, designer, developer, or freelancer you're already comfortable working with. If that's the case, ask them to email us (expertprogram@mailchimp.com). We'll get them registered as an official MailChimp Expert right away.

If you're not already working with someone, check out our list of MailChimp Experts. Find an expert with experience in the area where you need help. Then email them and explain you'd like to work with them as part of the Experts Exchange Program.

2. Agree on project scope and cost with your Expert.

Decide exactly what the expert's going to do and how much they charge for that service.

3. Send the invoice to MailChimp.

Once the project is complete, have your expert send a copy of your paid invoice to expertprogram@mailchimp.com. We'll take up to 50 percent off your monthly bill for six months, or until we've reimbursed you for half the cost of the project—whichever comes first.
